

A Way Out

Today your heart is breaking because the dreams you made have died.
Your hope is slowly fading with all the tears that you have cried.
Do you think that God has left you?
Do you think he's gone away?
Do you feel you're being punished for the things you did today?
God doesn't cause the heartaches
but he knows what lies ahead.
Sometimes he gives us a way out so we change our course instead.
When you're feeling down, remember,
that for every tear you've cried,
there's a blessing that awaits you.
There's a God who's on your side.
Do you think your dreams are dying?
Well... I suggest you think again!
God made your dreams much bigger.
Will you let them now begin?