

All My Tommorrow's

Time goes so fast. I thought it'd last.
I never dreamed this day would come.
Why are the years replaced with tears? Where do they all come from?
Is heaven the place you now call home?
Does Jesus sit and talk with you?
I pray one day I'll hear God say that I can come there, too.
I miss you so, but I will let go, because God has a plan for me.
He needs me to stay until it's my day. Then I will finally be set free.
Help me remember all the times that we shared.
Never let me forget your face.
God used your life to share his love and show the meaning of grace.
My heart still breaks and it always will.
When I think back, I feel the pain.
God wants me to remember your life here on earth
And all the blessings that still remain.
I loved you yesterday. I love you today
And I will love you for all my tomorrows.
You are forever my piece of heaven here on earth
So I will look up and let go all of my sorrows.