

Heaven

Faithful servant, it's time to go. Your time on earth is through.
You finished the task that you were given so let me take care of you.
There are friends and family you haven't seen for days and some for years.
Come, let us go. Your reward awaits. There's no need for you to fear.
It's okay. Do not worry. I will stay behind and take care of those you love.
They'll cry when you're gone, but they'll also know that you're safe now up above.
Heaven is the place where you all will unite, but for now it waits for you.
Others will come when their time is up and they finished what they were born to do.
Your body wore out so it's time to go. Close your eyes and take my hand.
The angels are hosting a party for you. I'm not sure what they all planned.
Open your eyes! You're finally home. Gather around - she finally arrived!
Excuse the cheering and joyous song, but they too were very surprised.
Here comes your son; he's been counting the days until he'd see you face to face.
He's longed for the touch of his mother's arms and the love that they embrace.
Here comes your mom and grandma, too. There are others farther than you can see.
Don't worry you will miss someone you love because you now have an eternity.
Welcome home, loving daughter, I'm glad you're here. You've been faithful to the end.
Angels - tone down the drums so earth won't fear that another big storm I will send!
There is someone who's been waiting for you. It's Jesus, My Beloved Son.
Here he comes now with open arms. My will for your life is now done.