

My Heart

My world is so empty with you not around.
I feel so alone as my tears hit the ground.
No one ever told me that when a loved one dies
There'll always be a void
that can't be filled with human cries.
I keep searching and praying, but I can't understand
Why today was your last day and not what we planned.
I know God is Good and one day I will see
The reason God took you home and why it had to be.
Each time I am hurting, please know that I care.
Your body may have left,
But my heart is with you there.
