

My Hero

I can give you gifts you'll treasure. I can buy you many things, but when our time on earth has ended, what good will these things bring?

I can destroy a house with fire. I can break most things in two, but a home lives on forever, just like the bond I share with you.

It's hard to explain to others, how I think and what I feel.

It surpasses understanding. Yet it's there and oh so real.

I can see God lives within you. I can feel your warmth inside.

You have been there when I was happy and you held me when I cried.
Sometimes the things we pray for don't turn out the way we've planned, but God always knows the outcome and one day, we'll understand.

No matter where life leads me. No matter what it brings.

Please know you are "My Hero" and my heart will always sing...

You are my Dad. A gift I treasure. The love you gave me helped me move on.
When heartache threatened to destroy my being, I'd think about you and be strong.

You gave me Jesus to fight my battles. You gave me hope for each new day.
You gave me laughter when I was hurting and through your prayers, I found my way.

I want to thank you for all you gave me and when my time on earth is through,
I will see you up in the heaven's where we'll live our life anew.

I love you, Dad, forever and always.
