

The Emptiness Inside

And now the dawn is breaking as I gaze towards my home,
The door is closed, the curtain down – no more can I there roam.
The absence of both parents in a home once filled with love
Is dark and cold, all laughter gone, but they're safe now up above.
You see they went to heaven. Their pain on earth is gone.
It's hard for me to understand, because I couldn't go along.
I'd like to feel the sunshine, not the emptiness inside.
My heart is broke, all feeling gone and a part of me has died.
I know God will be with me and help me through this pain.
One day I'll go to heaven and no longer here remain.
Our God will heal all heartaches. He'll dry the tears we cry.
We only have to trust him and never ask him why.
In heaven there is no pain, no tears or even sorrow.
My pain will cease. I'll soon have peace, but it may take 'til tomorrow.
It's time I close my eyes as the daylight turns to night.
Please help me, God, to sleep a while. I'm forever in your sight.