

The Escape from All the Pain

The headlines said a soldier died in a land so far away, but it forgot to mention God was there and he's there still to this day.

In faith there are things we cannot see so no one dies alone.

With God's loving arms around each one, he comes to take them home.

God always protects the innocent and he never leaves their side.

Though the world can destroy their body, God holds their soul inside.

There are things on earth they'll hear no more and things they'll never see, but these are the things that the world offers. They are things not meant to be.

They'll never know a drunk driver killed a mother and her son or a child was killed by human hands when they aborted one.

They'll never hear a woman was raped by a man so filled with lust or a friend took liberties in God's name and betrayed a child's trust.

They'll never see the pain of war and know a soldier's fear or how aids and drugs claim many lives both far away and near.

Death is the key to heaven's door. It's the escape from all the pain.
It's the gift of life from God's own son and through his death his love remains.
