

God's Medal of Honor

Did you question God's motive when your life didn't go as planned?
Do you feel angry at it's unfairness as you try hard to understand?
Do you think that it's a punishment for something you have done or believe it must be a mistake because your life had just begun?
Take time to stop and see it - from our Father's point of view.
You see, your injury wasn't a punishment, but our God just loving you.
That day was not an ending of the dreams that you recall.
God just rearranged their outcome 'cause you were dreaming way to small.
God uses many a soldier because they're a part of "his" own team.
Some may be young and scared inside but it's not always what it seems.
They fight to keep us free from a world so full of sin.
God knows them each by name and he sees their heart within.
There are many hurting people who are lost and injured, too, but you can teach them by example as God's light comes shining through.
Listen with your heart and don't let your head get in the way.
Keep looking up when life gets rough and in faith begin your day.
Others see your injury as a small victory, but now you know it's "God's Medal of Honor" to show he blesses thee.
