

Good Things Lie Ahead

Leaving is a good thing though some will disagree.
It depends what side the door you're on
And if it comes between you and me.

It's been said when a door closes there is always a way out.
Have you ever stopped and wondered what the door is all about?
Between friends the door is safety and it keeps us safe within.

Though paths may change, the bond remains
And we'll meet one day again.

If you keep the door wide open there's a world that waits for you
With sunshine and rain, happiness and pain,
Each day God will see you through.

The next time that you leave something remember good things lie ahead.
With new hopes extreme, unlimited dreams,
Life will go smoothly instead.
