

He's Not the Hurting Kind

You look so sad today. Is there something I can do?
Is your heart breaking in silence and is it destroying you?
Are you crying out to God to take your pain away
but the pain keeps increasing as you live from day to day?
There's something you're forgetting or may have slipped your mind.
You see, God will never leave you and He's not the hurting kind.
You may see Him in a stranger who smiles and says, "Hello"
or after a damaging storm when He sends a bright rainbow.
He may show up in a hug that He gives you through a friend or in a star-filled sky as your day comes to an end.
God appears in subtle ways but He'll never leave your side.
He'll be there when your heart is broke and He'll dry the tears you've cried.
Now smile! God has His eyes on you. One day He'll let you see - the pain was there to help you grow and His love will always be.