

His Promise Is True

The sun is setting soon and you're still fast asleep.
Are you swimming with whales in an ocean so deep
Or are you with angels and is God there with you
And he tells you he's proud of the things that you do?
He tells you the trials that you've gone through since birth
Are your badges of courage meant to show what you're worth.

God loves you so much and his promise is true,
Where two or more gather you will find him there, too.
You're filled with infection, but we're asking God still
To take this pain from you and we pray that he will.
He must know we need you and you've so much to give.
He will send you the strength. Now you must fight to live.
We're all waiting for you and our love remains strong.
It's between you and God now so it won't be that long.
