

New Life

We all have people we'll never forget.
Some may be family or people we've met.
Still others may be strangers that we saw on the news
Or over the internet it could have been, too.
They make an impression right from the start.
So each time you think of them, it touches your heart.
I know there are many who are now up in heaven.
Some may have died from illness and yet others from 9/11.
There is such a void when death comes to call.
We remember the pain, but the blessings can't recall.
Satan tries to steal the memories that you shared.
He wants to keep you sad and not know their life was spared.
Death is the door to the new life that lies ahead.
It's eternal life with Jesus and not something we need dread.
Everyone who dies and has Jesus in their heart
Now walks the streets of gold, but the memories won't depart.
Hold on to the memories and let them help you through.
It's God's special blessing and his way of helping you.
Let us all bow our heads and together let us pray -
"God bless America and those not with us this day!
We, as a nation built on faith, send our love
To those who died on 9/11 and all others up above."
