

These Chosen Few

When you think of a hero, what words come to mind -

Brave, unselfish, loyal and kind?

There really isn't "one" word

To describe these chosen few...

Unless you take the dictionary

And read it all way through!

A hero will always stand up for what's right

And when there's a need they go out in the night.

It doesn't make a difference

If they fear what lies ahead,

Because they always risk their lives

No matter what is said.

Policemen and policewomen along with Veterans, too,

Are heroes of the finest kind, because of all they do.

There are no words to thank you

So I asked our God above

To bless you and your family

With his everlasting love.

I pray for your protection

And I hope you'll always know -

You make this world a better place

No matter where you go.
