

Who's That Knocking?

"Who's that knocking on the door?" I asked and then I waited...
No one answered so I turned around and no more anticipated.
The knock came again softly so I said a bit perturbed,
"Who's that knocking? Let me know," but again I heard no word.
The day dragged along slowly with so many ups and downs.
Every feeling I turned off... until again came the sound.
This time I stopped and I opened the door.
It was God stand there -
"Don't you love me no more?
I was knocking all day but you wouldn't let me in.
By the look on your face I knew you needed a friend."
How often do you hear the knock on the door and you tell God to leave because you don't need Him no more?
God patiently waits there with his arms open wide.
He will never leave you. He is there by your side.
So keep the door open and your day will be bright.
His love will sustain you from morning until night.
